Join us in shaping how environmental sustainability is measured, managed, and driven across a global organization. In this role, you ' ll combine data, analytics, and sustainability expertise to support smarter decision-making and ensure we meet evolving regulatory and environmental commitments. Working closely with cross-functional teams, you ' ll play a key role in strengthening data quality, enabling transparent reporting, and helping Novartis deliver meaningful impact for patients, society, and the planet.

About the Role

Key Responsibilities

- Drive environmental performance reporting through strong collaboration across internal and external stakeholders
- Implement and maintain processes ensuring timely reporting of environmental key performance indicators across sites
- Ensure readiness for emerging regulations including Corporate Sustainability Reporting Directive and Green Taxonomy
- Support senior leadership with data-driven insights to guide environmental sustainability decisions
- Drive execution and delivery of sustainability targets across climate, waste, and water
- Support assurance of sustainability indicators in line with ISAE 3000 and applicable standards
- Support product carbon footprint assessments as needed in line with evolving guidelines
- Improve data accuracy, quality, and controls to meet evolving regulatory requirements
- Prepare monthly environmental performance reports for senior leadership
- Support training and communication initiatives to build sustainability capabilities across teams

Essential Requirements

- Master of Business Administration with degree in engineering, technology, or related technical or scientific field
- Around 5 to 6 years of relevant experience in environmental sustainability preferably with leading consulting organizations
- Strong experience in data analytics, performance reporting, and working with cross-functional stakeholders
- Hands-on experience reporting environmental sustainability performance aligned with Greenhouse Gas Protocol and similar standards
- Advanced skills in Microsoft Excel and PowerPoint
- Fluent in English, both written and spoken
- Strong communication skills with proactive and self-driven working style
- Ability to work effectively in a global matrix organization

Desirable Requirements

- Experience driving execution of environmental sustainability strategy and targets within multinational organizations

Commitment to Diversity and Inclusion

Novartis is committed to building an outstanding, inclusive work environment and diverse team representative of the patients and communities we serve.
