Location: Toronto, Ontario

This role is based in Toronto, Canada. Novartis is unable to offer relocation support for this role:

please only apply if this location is accessible for you.

This job posting is for an existing position

Key responsibilities:

- Define and execute the country-specific medical strategy aligned with global and regional direction
- Adapt international medical plans into local strategies supporting pre-launch, launch, and lifecycle management
- Lead local evidence generation strategy (RWE, HEOR, Phase IV/III) and oversee publication planning
- Provide scientific expertise to inform clinical development, trial feasibility, and integrated evidence plans
- Lead and guide scientific engagement with HCPs and Medical Experts, ensuring credible and compliant interactions
- Oversee MSL strategy and ensure aligned field medical engagement and insight generation
- Design and deliver medical education strategies, including congresses, symposia, and scientific events
- Build and maintain strong partnerships with external stakeholders (KOLs, societies, academic institutions)
- Collaborate cross-functionally with Commercial, Market Access, Regulatory, and global medical teams
- Lead, develop, and inspire a high-performing medical team while fostering an inclusive and growth-oriented culture

Essential Requirements:

- MD, PharmD, PhD, or equivalent advanced scientific degree
- Experience in Medical Affairs and/or Clinical Development developing and executing medical strategies across the product lifecycle
- Prior leadership experience with people and team management responsibilities
- Strong experience engaging with HCPs/Medical Experts and leading field medical teams
- Demonstrated expertise in evidence generation and scientific communication
- Strong cross-functional collaboration experience across Medical, Commercial, Access, and Regulatory
- Solid understanding of compliance, regulatory environment, and governance processes
- Fluent in English.

Desirable Requirements:

- Experience in Neuroscience therapeutic area
- Exposure to regional or global medical roles in a matrix organization
