摘要

An exciting internal secondment opportunity is available within the UK Pricing & Access team, offering an existing Novartis associate the chance to broaden their experience and develop new skills in pricing, market access and NHS commercial strategy.
This opportunity would suit someone looking to:
Gain practical experience within Pricing & Access
Develop an understanding of UK pricing, NHS commercial agreements and access
Work across different brands and collaborate with colleagues across Value & Access and the wider business
Build transferable commercial and stakeholder-management skills
Broaden their experience through a temporary internal move, before returning to their substantive role.
The role would suit someone who is curious, takes ownership and is able to build effective relationships across different teams.
We are looking for highly organised and analytical individual who is comfortable working with data and managing multiple priorities. Strong Excel, data management and stakeholder management skills are important, together with the ability to quickly learn new systems and processes.
Previous experience in pharmaceutical pricing, market access, finance, commercial operations or another data-intensive environment would be advantageous, but is not essential.

About the Role
